

Executive Roundtables

Industry executives are invited to participate in M&A's Executive Roundtables. Each facilitated roundtable serves as an "advisory board" where executives can share knowledge, meet their peers, and learn best practices in a confidential setting.

EAG Roundtables

EAG stands for Executive Advisory Group and consists of CEO's, COO's, Presidents, and top level executives that meet once a month. The Roundtable consists of a discussion of current, relevant topics facing industries today ending with solutions to business issues members are facing with occasional speakers. The goal is to solve business issues in a confidential, non-competitive environment by sharing and collaborating on best practices.

HRE Roundtables

Human Resources Executive Roundtables gather the top HR executives to discuss and solve pressing Human Resources issues that companies are facing today by utilizing best practices. Issues have included winning the war on talent compensation issues on equity vs. external competitiveness as well as controlling benefit costs and succession planning. These issues are discussed while keeping in mind the strategic alignment of Human Resource goals with company goals and being a strategic partner with the CEO and leadership team.

Executive "C"onnections

This roundtable enables many top executives to connect with others in manufacturing and related industries once every month. For C-level executives in transition to their next networking role, Executive "C"onnections meets to discuss hot topics centered around interviewing or landing a role while also discussing job leads, giving introductions, and making connections to centers of influence. Executive "C"onnections is our venue for giving back to the executives and the manufacturing industry we serve.
